LECTURES TO YOUNG MEN: DELIVERED IN LON-DON .- This is the title of a volume containing a series of lectures delivered in Exeter Hall before the Young Men's Christian Association from November, 1856, to February, 1857. The volume contains the twelfth and last series of lectures which have been delivered by some of the most eminent men of the British Empire. We have read the lecthres with very great interest. The object of them is to promote the spiritual and mental condition of young men. They are marked with a hi, h order of ability, and are pervaded throughout with a deeply moral and religious tone that must be productive of the most enduring good to all young men who will give them a perusal. We heartily recommend these lectures for their noble sentiments, their original conceptions, their practical usefulness, their purity of thought, and their scholarly style. And, in drinking down their rich instruction, we have not been able to repress the reflection how happy it would be for the youth of our country, and for our country itself, if "Young America" would spend the long and precious winter evenings in reading such volumes as these, instead of wasting their time, and coasnming their temporal and eternal interest at the gaming-table and the drinking-saloon. The volume can be obtained at the bookstore of

We are not surprised at the indignation of the fire-eaters at the knocking down of Mr. Keitt. He is the peculiar representative of the fire-eating party in the House of Representatives. Of course a blow nnder uis ear was equally a blow under the multitudinous ears of the whole party. Any one fire-eater, in alluding to his fall, may appropriately say to his brother fire-eaters-

"There you and I and all of us fell down" "While" Grow's huge fist was "flourished over us."

The New York Evening Post, in an article on the disgraceful occurrences in the U.S. Ilouse of Representatives, on Saturday morning, says it was rather a pity to knock Mr. Keitt down, for, if his reported behavior was any indication of his bodily condition, he would soon have reached the floor of his own motion.

This may explain the secret of Mr. Keitt's avowed ignorance as to whether he was knocked down or

And is there, in this love-bewildered world, One human heart that craves not human love? That calm could see its life-dream downward hurled And only say " 'twill all be right above?"

O, canting hypocrite! life without love? Aye, human love—there's not one true, high heart Throbbing beneath you shining stars above But would with life itself far sooner part.

Tis easy talking of a love like this, Fixed in the skies, which gives the bosom calm; But in one answering heart-throb there's a bliss Ye would not change for Gilead's mystic balm

And have not you felt this? "The carth is pright And I am earthly, so I love it well; Though Heaven is holier and full of light, Yet I am frail and with frail things would dwell."

Again, †"Love is not grief nor shame nor sin," And if the first sweet draught, e'en as we taste, To ashes turn, must the parched soul let in No other stream that gushes in life's waste?

Should "mould, create," there is a crumbling clay, As every earnest, soulful spirit knows— Form it in classic mould—one murky day— 'Twill sink into the dust from whence it rose would not chill one heart that trusts in me, Nor from the path allotted turn away, But may not spirits, linked by sympathy, Enjoy an hour's commune at break of day?

care not though the form I ne'er behold, If the soul's breathing language answers mine; The darkened scroll from off my heart is rolled, And Love's pure essence poured upon its shrine! And not one spirit in ten thousand here

E'er finds an echo to its quivering thought; Its flash of bright intelligence-its tear With love and fear and hopeful trembling franght. And when it is so blest, can it be wrong

To clasp but once that hand-exchange one glance Which might inspire, in heaven's pure realm, a song Whose notes would fill Eternity's expanse?

If this may never be, oh why was placed By One Allwise this struggling stream of love Within the soul, if it might never taste One answering glimmer from the skies above?

VALENTINES. - The boookstores on Third and Fourth streets were at times crowded yesterday with the young folks to procure valentines. The day falls this year on Sunday (to-morrow). Captain John Thavis.—This gentleman, the champion is stoles but of the world, is now in the city on a visit from Lousville, where he has established a fine gallery, and been received with that cordiality and hospitality for which the people of Kentucky are descreadly farned. John looks as well or better than ever, and informs us that he is in course of fitting up a gallery also at Lexington.

St. Louis Leader, Feb. 9.

Capt. John has returned to our city. His fine gallery here, probably the most perfect one in the United States, is open and filled daily. The experiment is singularly successful.

Capt. Travis will, on Monday, commence giving instructions to those who wish to take lessons in pistol shooting. He can, in an incredibly short time, teach his pupils to beat everybody except himself and each other.

REGULATORS STILL AT WORK .- The Regulators in Noble and some of the adjoining counties in Indiana are still at work among the counterfeiters and horse thieves. COUNTERFEITERS .- Three men, severally giving their names as Aby, Rowland, and Taylor, were brought to Indianapolis on Friday and taken before United States Commissioner Rea on a charge of counterfeiting silver coin. Their attorneys waived an examination. The Commissioner required each one to give bail in the sum of $2,000 for an appearance at the next term of the United States Circuit Court. The three men are of the gang of counterfeiters arrested by the Noble county regulators.

A man named S. R. Biesenthal, who keeps a jewelry shop on Market street, was arrested yesterday on a charge of felony. It appears that about two weeks ago a Miss Bacon lost a gold locket and chain. A few days ago she called at Biesenthal's establishment and saw her lost articles. He claims to have had the chain a long time and denied that they were Miss B.'s. She took out a felony warrant against him and he was arrested.

There is no Louisville boat to-day for New Orleans, but the Argyle, a good up-river craft, will leave Porrland at 10 o'clock this morning. We can safely recommend passengers to Mr. Topping, her clerk, who will use every effort to render passengers comfortable.

The Antelope -This large and spacions seamer will leave for New Orleans to-morrow morning. The A. has superb accommodatious, and Captain Beeler and Mr. Sage, her two chief officers, are gentlemen with whom it is a pleasure to travel. The A. passed Evansville last evening and will be at Portland this morning.

The Empress will arrive to-morrow morning. The R. M. Patton will leave for the Tennessee river this evening. She is a fine boat and well officered. Capt. Barnard commands her and Mr. Harvey has charge of the office.

The neat packet Tempest will leave for Nishville this evening. She is a first-class boat, and Captain Parr and Mr. Johnston, the clerk, are first-rate officers.

The new steamer C. W. Sombart, built here for tne Missouri river trade, will be down from Madison to-day, for which place she started evening before last to load with lumber, and leave for St. Lonis and the Missouri river to-day. The Sombart was built principally for a freight boat, but she has a small and well arranged cabin.

The Diamond, Capt. Holcroft, will leave for Pittsburg this evening. The D. is a Louisville boat, and has a handsome and well furnished cabin, and is well calculated for carrying freight. We recommend her both to travelers and shippers. Mr. Huston is the clerk.

The Superior is the mailboat for Cincinnati to-day, the Emma Dean is the Carrollton packet, and the Dove will leave for the Kentucky river.

AFFAIRS AT FRANKFORT. [Special Correspondence of the Louisville Journal.]

FRANKFORT, Feb. 12, 1858.

The House of Representatives consumed the greater portion of the morning in the discussion of the bill introduced by Gen. Combs to incorporate the Kentncky River Mannfacturing Company. The object of the bill is the completion of the improvements of that beautiful stream for the benefit of the current of the completion of the stream for the benefit of the current of the contract of the completion of the current of the contract of the current of the curr counties bordering upon it. Gen. Combs eloquently advocated the measure, and it was passed by a very large majority. It provides that, so soon as the company shall have completed one more lock and dam, the improvements already constructed shall be leased to them for the term of fifty years. The company are required to pay annually to the Sink-ing Fund an amount equivalent to the present net income from these work. This measure will be of incalculable benefit to the rich and populous coun-ties bordering upon the river. It will open and make available the vast mineral and agricultural esources that are now shut out from access to market, and will develop astonishingly the coal, iron, and all products of our mountains.

INFORMATION WANTED .- The wife of Mr. J. A. Dervy is now in Memphis and is very anxious to ascertain the present where abouts of her husband. Any information in regard to him, communicated personally or by letter, would be most thankfully received.

The Memphis Avalanche tells the following story of the missing hasband:

About three weeks ago an individual named J. A. Devry, some fifty years of age, embarked, with his young and interesting wife and aged mother in-law, on a New Orleans boat at Louisville for some point on the Mississippi river. It appears that Devry and his wife were rather unequality mated, for, on the way from Louisville to Portland, at which point they were to amburk, a misundarst online covered. and his wife we're rather unequality mated, for, on the way from Louisville to Porthaud, at which point they were to embark, a misunderstanding occurred between them, which grew into a public quarrel, and, while on the boat. Devry assaulted his wife, and treated her so rudely otherwise that the commander of the boat deemed it his duty to interfere, and the misguided husband was put ashore at Henderson, Kv., and the females fell under the protection of a Kentucky horse-trader, who provided for them until the hoat reached this city, at which point they disembarked. Notwithstanding the bad treatment of the wife by the erring husband, the hidy exhibited that remarkable and inexplicable devotion which discloses itself from time to time in the female character, and actually traveled with her mother on the deck of the boat while the husband luxuriated in the cabin, their little treasure being insufficient to warrant the whole party in incurring that expense. Mrs. Devry and her mother are at present in this city. earning a livelibood by their labor, but, for reasons best known to themselves, wish to ascertsin the whereabouts of the errant has band. so offending he would vote with him, but not on so sweeping and indefinite a charge.

Mr. Houston—If the gentleman would state on his own responsibility the improper influences used, that would afford a tangible ground for investigation, but not scurrillous articles from newspapers.

Mr. Hourd read from the Richmond South, which said that the President had declared to put the Lecompton consilution through in thirty days or burst, as four desi able votes could be procured by means of Executive appointments, but it would require nice engineering.

The Speaker thought this did not present a question of privilege.

Mr. Hoard read from the correspondence of the Tribune: "I learn that nntil Monday morning it was expected that Burna, of Ohio, would vote against the Lecomptonites. On the morning of that day, however, he came to another perception of his duty on an understanding with the President that his son in-law should retain the valuable place of posimaster of Kackuk, Iowa, and that he himself should be gratified with the office of Marshal of the Northern District of Ohio when his present term in the House shall be completed."

erced by cowardice, hope, or fear, he was very much mistaken. Neither the Executive nor others could influence them. He was on the track of a distin-guished reporter, and if he could find him he would xpel him, Mr. Burns pronounced the statement of the Tri-

We learn from a highly responsible source, that in Pulaski county, a few days since, a young man was so brutally whipped by some 10 or 15 persons, that he died in consequence, and declared, in his dying moments, that he was innocent of the charge alleged—stealing money. If the story, as detailed, is true, every one concerned in the transaction should be hung as high as Haman. It was nothing more nor less than the basest murder.—Helma (Ark.) Shield.

A NINE DAYS' BATTLE BETWEEN CANNIBALS-HOW THEY COOK AND EAT THEIR ENEMIES -The Honolulu Advertiser of a late date says:

Honolulu Advertiser of a late date says:

Hanaveve Valley, which lies opposite the bay, does not resemble our Hawaiian valleys. It is not a gentle slope between two hills, but a ravine with steep sides, apparently split out from the mountains. It is, however, one of the largest, most beautiful, and productive of the many glens of Fatuhiva. This valley has receutly been the scene of a pratracted war between the neighboring tribes. One of these contests lasted nine days, at the close of which the bodies of the captured dead were eaten. This cannibal custom prevails throughout this group.

They do not have a great feast over the e human bodies, as is generally supposed to be the case, but the blody is cut to pieces on the battle field, and each warrior takes his piece—an arm, a joint, a rib, ac-warrior takes his piece—an arm, a joint, a rib, according to his merit—raises it on his gun over his shoulder and marches home. There he calls his relations together, and they devour the flesh—some lations together, and they devour the flesh—some cooking it in slices like jock, but most eat it raw. The motive which induces them to eat the bodies of their enemies is revenge; they feel that their revenge is not satisfied until they have tasted of their blood and flesh. When their halred, anger, and revenge are at the highest point, and their enemy lies dead before them, then it culminates in the fiendish act of eating human flesh, and we may easily imagine that the quivering heart that cringes and grates between their bloody teeth, is the sweetest morsel that a their bloody teeth, is the sweetest morsel that a heathen warrior can taste. This cannibalism is con-fired mostly to the o'der natives. The younger people appear to be ashamed of the practice, and it is probable that before many years it will be extinct among the Marquesas.

This famous battle of Hanaveve, Keketa tells us, lasted nine days. It consisted rather of skirmishing, though shots enough were fired to have killed a regiment. It is quite likely that these simple warriors did their firing with eyes shut, as during the entire contest but one or two persons were killed. The heathen party in this terrible scare entered into The heathen party in this terrible scare entered into a compact with their conquerors, in which hostages were exchanged, but those of the vanquished ran away (from fear of being devoured, perhaps), and returned to their tribe, who immediately, in the most secret manner, took "hag and baggage" from the soil of their ancestors, and made a hasty retreat to the Island of Tuhunka. The victors having gained the Island of Tahuska. The victors having gained more than they anticipated, but just what they de-sired, took possession and divided the spoils. This contest was no ancient fend. There were but two contest was no ancient fend. There were but two points of approach to the valley, one by the mountain pass and one by sea. Never before had the enemy been able to force this narrow passage—a fastness of nature. They had been forced to steal through an aperture worn by the waves through the northern point of the island, from whence they discharged their fire-arms upon their enemies and retreated. It is now said that the exiles are home sick, that they desire to return, and that there are those of the conquerors who would welcome them back.

THE LATEST "ISM."-The Worcester Transcript gives the following account of a new tem called "Restitutionism," which has recently sprung up in Worcester and some other places:

The Restitutionists believe that what man lost is the fall is now beginning to be restored, and that the germ, now confined to their own small number, is yet to bud and flourish till it cover the earth. They yet to bud and flourish till it cover the earth. They are all Restitutionists in one sense—they believe that everything is to come back to its original form and purity. Their Sabbath, therefore, occurs on Saturday, as the original day of worship; and their meetings are held on Friday evening, because it is Sunday eve. They only use the Lord's prayer, as that alone can have efficacy with the Father. To them, or three of them at least, is committed the apostolic gift of tangue; this gift appears to be rather usaless, as the words spoken are not only unintelligible to bystanders but to the others who have a like gift till the inward manifestation of the telligible to bystanders but to the others who have a like gift till the inward manifestation of the spirit makes it known. They are God's chosen and willing instruments in whom the Holy Spirit now develops himself partially, but through whose instruments the world is soon to be entirely restored. This sect, small in numbers, is strong in the faith and working activity of its members. There are others of like faith in Athol, New Braintree, Springfield, and other places.

others of like faith in Athol, New Braintree, Spring-field, and other places.

As we said before, one of them was arrested yes-terday for an assault and battery on his wife. It appeared in evidence that his wife, who was once a believer, had now fallen from grace and therefore must be converted. This for three months he had attempted to do chiefly by threatening, shaking, and tickling her—tickling was his most potent wea-pon, and even employed till she swooned under his pointed arguments. On Saturday he informed her that unless she was reconverted and believed, she would die within three months. On the next day, being in great fear, she attempted to open the winbeing in great fear, she attempted to open the windows to summon the neighbors, when he jerked her back so violently that she swooned. When the door mouning, and he was quietly seated in his chair, holding the child and reading the Bible. He was found not guilty, there being no evidence of any attempt on his part to injure her. He made a flaming speech to the court on his prophetical powers and with of tongue.

A GROWING POLITICAL PARTY.—The Taunton Gazette has the following paragraph relating to three of the Republican members of Congress from Massachusetts:

Hon. H. L. Dawes, of the Eleventh Congressional District, Mr. Thayer, of the Worcester District, and Mr. Davis, of the Salem District, have all been recently called home by their wives to take a look at recent "pledges of affection" with which they have Manucal.—Whitlows.—Dr. Guinier, Professor of the Fuculty of Medicine at Montpelier, has just published a letter in the Abeille Medicale, in which he ished a letter in the Abeille Medicale, in which he describes a peculiar method of stopping the progress of a whitlow in its first stage. A whitlow generally lagins, with a dull sensation of heat in the affected inger, wear the nail; a rose-colored spot marks the easter disease. This point, when pressed, is painful; the polor disappears, and immediately returns after the pressure, has ceased. After the lapse of a few hours the pain becomes more permanent, the color darker, and extends over a large space, while the skin is awollen. The pain increases rapidly, but as yet there is no pulsation. This, Dr. Gninier says, is the proper time for applying the remedy. Having slightly wetted the influence surface, he passes over the whole of it slowly with a pencil of lunar caustic, for at least a minute, in order to make sure that the influence of the caustic has penetrated that the influence of the caustic has penetrated through the enticle.

The sitrate of silver is allowed to do the caustic has penetrated through the caustic has penetrated through the silver is allowed to do the caustic has been allowed to the caustic has bea through the enticle.

The nitrate of silver is allowed to dry on the finger. When the skin has become black the cure is complete. The patient feels no pain, not even an aching sensation, during the operation, and a short time afterward the pain of the whitlow disappears, the black skin peals off afternouse we days, and no trace is left of the disorder. If the operation be performed after the pain has become pulsative, the latter increases after the contraction, but the throbs come in the course of a few hours, and the cure is effected with equal certainty. Dr. Guinier is not sure that his remedy would produce its effect after the commencement of suppuration; at all events the sure requires more time. He ascribes the successthe commencement of suppursation, at all events the surconsquire requires more time. He ascribes the successful result obtained from nitrate of silver, not to its having destroyed the diseased part (the inflammation in to deeply scated, and the cautarization to apperficial for that), but to a revulsion or shock

THE TWO ENGLISHMEN BY DESMARAIS.

An Englishman has just died in the Rue Joubert, leaving a will (in favor of a French family) executed by reason of a chain of events so bizarre that they deserve relating.

Forty years ago, on a stormy evening, two Englishmen were wandering up and down the whirves of the Thames, evidently seeking to avoid each

Finally, the particular of one being exhausted, he addressed the other with:

"Well, sir, are you going to stry here?"
"Certainly! Why no', pray?"
"Because you here me."
"Ab! how se?"

"I want to drown inveelf."
"So do I! ard you bore inc equally."

"So do I! ard you bore inc equality."

"What are you going to drown for?"

"Because I choose; and you, eb?"

"Some reasen; so clear out, will you?"

"No, si! the place suits me; clear out yourself?"

They centinued to dispute, then to argue, and finally made a mutual confession, by which they discovered that one was bent on suicide from ruin and despite and the other simply from the blues." and despair, and the other simply from "the blues."

The latter, however, was determined to finish bimself in the particular spot he had selected, and accordingly offered the other his pocket-book (containing a large snm of money), to forego his tatal intention, and leave the place. The poor devil wanted nothing better, and accepted the morey instanter; but insisted on carrying his ben factor along with him, assuring him that such acts of charity would drive off "the blues" always.

But the "bypp'd" individual was obstinate. "You've got the money," cried he, "now clear out, and let me down at my ease."

"I shan't! If you are still determined to drown, I'll drown with you" and despair, and the other simply from "the blues,

"You ran't do i'; you've no excuse now."
"You can't do i'; you've no excuse now."
"Yes, I have; the obsticacy of my benefactor."
New argument, dispute, and finally a victory, for the first reclaimed suicide, who succeeded in dragging the be blue deall'd one away with him, to see the family whose husband and father he had saved v his eccentric charity.
Years passed; the ruined u.an made a second for Years passed; the ruined usan made a second fortune, and the hero of the "blues" succeeded in amusing himself on the continent. One day he (that is, the latter) related his Thames adventure to the English Ambassador at Paris, and the ambassador to'd it to the King. Louis XVIII., who was very fond of anecdotes, as everybody knows.

The King, who also thought himself a literary genius, was in the habit of furnishing a certain author, named Merville, with dramatic hints occasionally, and hinted the scene of the would-be suicides, among others, one day, in 1817. Merville (whose family name, by the way, was Camus) found it so diverting that he made a farce of it, and it was played the next year as the production of Merville & Co., (Louis XVIII being the Co.) under the name of "Les Deux Anglais."

However, Englishman No. 1 (the quondam ruined one) did net prosper permanently. Having emigrated to France, he established himself in Paris as a wine-merchant, which resulted in his final failnre in 1833, and in his death (without the aid of the Thames this time) two years afterward, leaving a daughter married to a Frenchman, whom he had dealt with commercially, and who yet keeps a wine store in the Changes and the commercially, and who yet keeps a wine store in the Changes and the commercially, and who yet keeps a wine store in the Changes and the commercially, and who yet keeps a wine store in the Changes and the commercially, and who yet keeps a wine store in the Changes and the commercially, and who yet keeps a wine store in the Changes and the commercially and who yet keeps a wine store in the Changes and the changes and the changes and the changes a ferman a second to the changes and the changes a ferman and the changes a ferman and the changes are changed and the changes and the changes and the change and the change and the changes and the changes and the changes are changed and the changes and the changes dealt with commercially, and who yet keeps a wine store in the Chaussee d'Antin.

The Englishman No. 2 (he of the blue devils), meantime, having remained in France since 1817, is the one who has just died, in the Rue Goubert, at the age of 67; and he leaves, by will, two-thirds of his fortune to the heirs of Englishman No. 1, who awayed him from suicide, and whom he sayed from any of the form suicide. saved him from suicide—and whom he saved from suicide—forty years ago, one stormy night, on the banks of the Thames.

The bequest is nearly a million! Enough for the wine merchant of the Chaussee d'Antin to stock a tolerable cellar with for his own drinking. Don't ou think so?

We obtained these details from the notary who drew the will; so you may consider them as signed, sealed, and sworn to. Parts, November 7, 1857.

A LADY COWHIDES A MAN IN A HOTEL FOR IN-SULTING ILEI. — About the usual dinner hour yester-day, the Southgate Honse was the scene of an affair which created no little excitement, and has afforded abundant food for gossip. Several persons were sit-ting in the office in the hotel, waiting the sound of the gong, when a lady entered from the street, and, walking up to a man in the crowd, drew a covered rawhide from heneath her cloak and commerced lay-ing it warmly over his head, face, and shoulders. ing it warmly over his head, face, and shoulders. The attacked party pushed her off and attempted to retreat, when her cloak fell to the floor, exposing to the gaze of the bystanders a six-barreled revolver protruding from the belt of her dress!

protruding from the belt of her dress!

After being pushed aside, the woman immediately recovered herself and "went in" again, and continued to lay on the stripes thick and fast, until the party assailed cried, "hold—enough." The lady then desisted from the attack, picked up her cloak, and coolly walked off, apparently well satisfied with the achievement. the achievement.

The cause of this summary chastisement is thus related by the lady lerself, who is a Mrs. E. H. Barry, a lady physician, who has an office on the corner of Sixth and Mound streets. The assailed party is Mr. P. H. Myers, formerly a clerk at the Southgate House. Mrs. B. states that on Tuesday evening last Myers called at her residence, and proposed to employ her as matron in a water cure establish, ment which was about coing into operation: establishment which was about going into operation; that after discussing the question of salary, duties, &c., he started to the his leave, but on rising he put his arm around her neck and attempted to kiss her—a liberty which she indignantly resented at the time, and then followed the matter up by publicly horse-whipping the offending individual in the office of the Southgate House. This is the statement of the lady herself (but which, we are informed, the gentleman denies) The husband of the lady resides in Cleveland. She came here about a year ago and located for the purpose of practising her

Baptism in the Might.—Four infatnated religious converts had a novel baptismal ceremony at a pond on the grounds of Ethan Allen, at Worcester, a little after midnight last Saturday night. A hole was cut in the ice, and two of the men walked into the water, each in his turn immersing the other. Their prayers and songs of praise attracted a watchman to the spot, who inquired what "on earth they were about?" They replied that the wet and dripping individuals who were shivering before them had just become converted and couldn't watt till morning to be

Why is a vain young lady like a confirmed drunk-ard? Because neither of them is satisfied with the moderate use of the glass.

If you observe a gentleman with his arm around the waist of a young lady, it is morally certain that they are not married.

Insults, says a modern philosopher, are like connterfeit money; we can't hinder them being offered, but we are not compelled to take them. A preacher, walking through a grave-yard, said: "Here lie the dead, and here the living ite."

A gentleman in conversation with Dr. John having, to some usual arguments for drinking, added this: "You know, sir, drinking drives away care, and makes us forget whatever is disagreeable; would not you allow a man to drink for that reason?" Johnson replied, "Yes, sir, if he sat next you."

Madame Lola Montes has sworn before a referee that she was born "in the beautiful town of Limerick," I reland. But her assertion in the next breath that she "wasn't present when she was born" essentially weakens the value of her testimony. Several biographical dictionaries affirm that her birthplace was Montrose, Scotland. According to some respectable authorities she drew her first breath in this city. How many places will claim her when dead is a question. But as she was not present when born, the exact truth of the matter is, perhaps, of no great consequence.—N. Y. Tribune.

Horrible State of Naples —The Loaden journals draw fearful pictures of the present condition of the Kingdem of Nacles Amid all the horrors of the earthquakes, the work of procription and cruelty to prisoners goes on. A Noples letter says: "The mayor of the province of Basilicata reported that, during the repeated shocks, eight hundred prisoners, unst of whom were unconvicted, were in a stare of terror, as their crazy prison threatened to fall and hury them in its ruins. A gallery, which iell, killed three and wounded several of these unfortunates. A room afterwards fell in, but did no mischief." "It is impossible," says the mayor, in an official report to the Minister of the Interior, dated December 18th, "to coscribe the confusion which reigned—fear, cries of desperation, endeavors to escape, prayers, tears, and blasphemy; such was the seem I met. In order to maintain order, the guard fired on the prisoners, but with powder only. To restore confidence and tranquility, I assured the prisoners I would remove them from those quarters of the building which the shock had rendered dangerous. I gave this assurance in the name of the king, our august master." In answer to the distressing report, Bianchiori replied in a cruel fashion. But even worse requisins to be told. On the 39th of December, another earthquake occurred, and 30,000 men, women, and children perished in the province of Basilicata. The same mayor asked for surgical aid on ochalf of the inhabitants; 4,000 amputation cases awaited their arrival. Sixty surgeons offered their services, but perhaps being poor, asked that their expenses might be paid, which his HORRIBLE STATE OF NAPLES -The London jour geens offered their services, but perhaps being poor, a-ked that their expenses might be paid, which his Majesty declined, and the poor creatures were suffered to die for want of aid that could be so cheaply rendered. The same terrible report adds that 230,-000 persons were rendered houseless by this earth-quake, and 100 died each day from want of food. Several gentlemen have returned from the coun-try which has recently been devastated by the earth-quake. They had passed nearly a fortnight in wan-tering from one place to another, and the infarma-dering from one place to another, and the informa-tion which they bring back is of the deepest and most painful interest. According to them the shocks continue throughout the entire district, to the numcontinue throughout the entire district, to the number of five or six a day, sometimes tolerably strong, and generally occasioning the fall of many of the ruin d houses. The hairbreadth escapes which they had are rather a matter for private narrative, but they much heighten the color of the terrible picture they draw. Their trip was extended far beyond Polla, and into the very center of volcanic action, as Potenza, Briensa, Tito, and many other places of mournful celebrity. The scene of desolation was beyond the power of description. The actual labor was not to rebuild, but to destroy; the few houses that remained standing were insecure, and one would have said uninhabitable, but that the people, in their misery, still clung, like rooks, to their falling their misery, still clung, like rooks, to their falling their inisery, still clung, like rooks, to their falling habitations.

The country, in many parts, still gaped with wide fissures of the breadth of two arms, and when they had closed, had done so unequally, one side being many feet higher than the other. Some of the incidents which they relate seem more like fables than facts. An infant had been dug out alive, after having been under the ruins eight days. Its mother fed it too bountifully, and it died. A girl of eight years of age had been disinterred after eleven days' burial, and was still living. The monks of S. Francisco, in Padula, related a story of a girl of 17 years of age, who had been recovered after 21 days' burial—the monks added that the girl spoke of having been visited in her subterranean tomb by a lady dressed in black, who gave her bread and water. She believed that it was the Madonna. Males had also been dug out alive, after 21 days' burial. One of the monks told my informants, that on the night of the 16th ult. the shock was so violent as to throw him ont of his bed through the window into the garden of the monastery.

At Veggiano, a poor women had lost her hus band and two children beneath the ruins; two yet band and two children benesth the ruins; two yet survived, but they quickly died of hnrger, and the wretched mother hanged herself. Tales of wonderful and tragic interest abound, and if the reader doubts their possibility he has only to read Colletia's graphic description of the earthquake of 1753. The teople had not settled down to anything like regular occupation, but grubbing among the ruins for whatever they could find and seeking for the bodies of their friends, of whom hundreds still remain, as yet disinterred. Supplies were slowly coming in for the poor people, but roads there were scarcely any, and much had to be transported on the backs of mules. The province of Basilicata is the largest in the kingdom, and yet has not more than one carriage road through it of any importance. tance.

KANSAS MOVEMENTS—GEN. CALHOUN.—A proposition, in the form of a resolution, will be offered from the Lecomptou side, to the effect that the people of Kansas, under the Lecompton Constitution, every provision in that instrument to the centrury not withstanding, will have the right to change it at any time after its acceptance, if it be accepted, by Congress. This is a concession.

Gen. Calhoun visited Judge Douglas shortly after his arrival. They had a long conversation, several persons being present. The Judge inquired in reference to the returns from Delaware Crossing. Cal-houn made no answer. Before they separated the question was again made. Calhous replied that the return had been properly certified. Judge Donglas then gave him some swern evidence on the subject. Calboun read and turned pale. About 1 o'clock at night Calboun sent to Douglas's house that he was ing-510 votes being put down where on'y 40 votes were cast—and that he had made the correction in the record with the approval of the President. He authorized Judge Douglas, Mr. Harris, of Illinois, and Gen. Quitman to publish this fact.

TROUBLE AMONG THE NEW TORK STREET VEN-DERS.—The Mayor is giving a deal of trouble to the New York street venders, who have stands on the sidewalks and corners for the sale of apples, candies, and other articles. The following argument of a German, who was brought up for selling hats at a stand on the sidewalk, illustrates the position of many of them:

Growth of the Nails.—Some interesting facts are stated in the journals of medicine in regard to the increase of nails and hair in man. From the statements made it appears that the growth of the nails is more rapid in children than in adults, and slowest in the aged. It goes on more promptly in summer than in winter, so that the same nail that is renewed in one hundred and thirty-two days in winter, requires only one hundred and sixteen in summer—a fact depending on the "vis vitalis," which seems to be proportioned to it. The increase of nails of the right hand is more rapid than of the left. It differs, also for the different fingers, and in corresponding right hand is more rapid than of the left. It differs also, for the different fingers, and in corresponding with the length of the finger—being most rapid for the middle finger, nearly equal for the two either sids of this, slower for the little finger, and slowest for the thumb. The growth of the hair is well known to he much accelerated by frequent cutting. It forms more rapidly by day than at night, and in hot seasons than in cold.

Grief knits two hearts in closer bonds than hap-piness ever can; and common sufferings are far stron-ger links than common joys.

WAX, PAPER, AND FEATHER FLOWERS. - We have receive I some exquisite specimens of these various kinds of flowers made by Mary E. H. Mc-Lean, whose advertisement has appeared in our columns. Her taste and skill in the production of such things are very remarkable. Many of her flowers are decidedly the most beautiful we have ever seen. The feather flowers in particular are of wondrons beauty and delicacy. They look like flowers grown in a more ethereal world than this.

We would respectfully call the attention of the public to a MARINE CHRONOMETER placed in our window, showing the exact time. It is entirely of American manufacture, and has been exhibited at the World's Fair in Paris in competition with the best London and French Chronometers, and also at the World's Fair in New York, and in every instance has received the highest premium for unequalled workmanship and correct time-keeping.

highest premium for unequalled workunanship and correct time-keeping.

To our watch department we have secured the services of Mr. Ed. Helwig, of New York. Mr. H. can execute any kind of watch-work fully equal to Jurgensen, Frodsham, Adams, or any of the first Loudon or Swiss makers.

In many fine Watches that are hroken parts are substituted greatly inferior to the originat, the customer paying the full price for a perfect piece of work. The Watch apparently performs well afterward for a while, but is more imperfect and less valuable than originally.

COMMERCIAL BANK BILL PASSED -We are advised by telegraph from Frankfort this morning that the House reconsidered the vote rejecting the Commercial Bank bill, and then passed it. It had previously passed the Senate.

Miss Avonia Jones .- This gifted young actress reappears to-night in the character of Lucy Ashton, which she rendered with so much pathos and beauty last night. We earnestly bespeak for her an overflowing house. The weather, it is true, threatens to continue inclement, but it threatens no rigors which can stand for a moment against the fascinations of this brilliant young danghier of the South.

We are equally astonished and delighted at the indications of high dramatic talent displayed by Miss Avonia Jones. Her acting is not only wonderfully simple, natural, and life-like, but it is wonderfully beautiful. It is the fresh and free expression of herself. She is certainly a bud of most glorious promise, and the refined and art-loving people of Louisville will honor themselves in throwing the sunshine of their appreciation full upon her unfolding genius.

We cannot forbear to add that the Edgar Ravenswood of Mr. Elmore, as given last night, is one of the noblest and most effective pieces of acting that we have had on our stage for years. It will doubtless be given to night with undiminished power.

Bishop Spalding's second lecture will be delivered at the Cathedral to-morrow evening at halfpast 7 o'clock, immediately after Vespers. The subject is-The Church and Barbarism, showing how the foundations of molern civilization were laid.

The above, which appeared in our paper, is false. Our New Orleans exchanges which copied the above will please make the correction.

OWNERS WANTED .- The following articles, which were taken from Hofer, now in jail for felony, and were doubtless stolen by him, can be seen at the office of the chief of police. Those who have lost anything of the kind can inspect them at the chief's office: 1 brown cloth overcoat; 1 black cloth frock coat; 2 pair black cassimere pants; 1 figured French vest; 1 white spread; 1 pair white window curtains. the benefit of which we have been and are still offering to our generous patrons.

of the Utah Iudians, but the Mormons are evidently lampering with them. Agents have been instructed to act with cautious liberaity toward them and use the utmost endeavors to prevent their alliance with the Mormons. The Santa Fe Gazette advocates raising a regiment of mounted riflemen in that Territory for the Utah war, stating that the march can be made from that point to Salt Lake City in fifteen days; also recommends that reinforcements be sent through New Mexico, describing that route as being much easier than a northern route, with abundance of provisions and forage, destitute of which it cannot be traveled quicker than via Fort Laramie.

New York, Feb. 12. The anti Lecompton meeting was not held. The use of Academy being refused. There is much indignation here on the subject. OFFICE OF THE ADAMS EXPRESS COMPANY, Louisville, February 13, 1858.

One of the light fingered gentry who too frequently infest our railroid depots to transact their dispraceful besiness in the way of picking pickets and stealing generally, a few days ago stole from Mr. Patridge's omnibus agent, at the Jeff ronville depot, a tin box countaining baggings chicks, which were of no earthly use to any person but the owner. The thief, no doubt, thought that he had met with a prize, through which, in all probability, he had made up his mind to suspend his disgreeful operations during the recent cold weather and live in clover for a while. If such were his anticipations, they fell short indeed of being realized on that occasion. The mean act gave Mr. Patridge and no ny burried travelers a great deal of trouble and contactor, which night have been obviated with summary justice had the petty rascal been caught in the act. had the petty rascal been caught in the act.

The political intelligence from the plexical state is summed up in the statement of the Monterey Bulletin that the people of the northern portion of the Republic had declared, almost to a man, for the "Constitutional party" and against the usurpation at the Capital. The same paper observes that "preparations are being made, and men constantly heing drilled into the service," with the object of common resistance. In all probability the several States of that section will content themselves with simple declarations of their opinions, without taking any very active part in what concerns them so little.
